PREFACE.

In presenting this, the first edition of a Brookline Blue Book, the publishers have essayed to make it as perfect as possible, so that it would be a valuable book of reference.

The residents of Brookline, for whom it was principally designed, can best judge how they have succeeded.

The publishers desire to express their thanks to the advertisers, and hope that they will feel that a fair equivalent has been rendered them.

Apostrophe to Water.

In a Sketch entitled "Paul Denton," written by the late A. W. Arrington, occurs the following Apostrophe to Water:

"Look at that, ye thirsty ones of earth! behold it! see its purity! How it glitters, as if a mass of liquid gems! It is a beverage that was brewed by the hand of the Almighty himself. Not in the simmering still or smoking fires, choked with poisonous gases and surrounded by the stench of sickening odors and rank corruption, doth our Father in heaven prepare the precious essence of life, the pure cold water; but in the green glade and grassy dell, where the red deer wanders and the child loves to play.—there God brews it: and down, down in the deepest valleys, where the fountains murmur and the rills sing; and high upon the tall mountain-tops, where the naked granite glitters like gold in the sun, where the storm clouds brood, and the thunders crash: and away, far out on the wide sea, where the hurrican's howl music, and the big waves roar the chorus heralding the march of God.—there he brews it, that beverage of life, health-giving water. And everywhere it is a thing of beauty, gleaming in the dewdrop, singing in the summer rain, shining in the ice gem, till the trees all seem turned into living jewels, spreading a golden veil over the setting sun, or white gauze around the midnight moon, sporting in the cataract, sleeping in the glacier, dancing in the hail-shower, folding its bright curtain softly about the wintry world, and weaving the many-colored iris, that seraph's zone of the sky, whose warp is the rainbow of earth, whose woof is the sunbeam of heaven, all checkered o'er with celestial flowers by the mystic hand of rarefaction,—still always it is beautiful, that blessed life water! No poison bubbles on the brink. Its foam brings no sadness or murder, no blood-stains in its limpid glass. Beautiful, pure, blessed, and glorious! Give me forever the sparkling pure cold water."

It is not known as Judge Arrington specially referred to the pure, sparkling White Rock Spring Water of Waukesha, Wisconsin, of which Raymond & Fox, 179 Tremont Street, Boston, are the sole agents,—but as the judge formerly lived in Wisconsin, it is possible that he may have received his inspiration from drinking a glass of the water from the spring.

HALFORD TABLE SAUCE.

Twenty-Five Years Before the Public.

Acknowledged to be the Greatest Relish Extant.

Mr. WILLIAM HALFORD was born in Leicester, the borough-town of Leicestershire, Eng. In 1857 he came to Nova Scotia as Comptroller of the household of His Excellency the Earl of Mulgrave, now Marquis of Normanby, who was commissioned by the Queen Lieutenant-Governor of that Province.

The Earl had a recipe for a Table-Relish. The recipe was that of the far-famed "Raby Hunt Sauce," which the the Duke of Cleveland, at Raby Castle, the Duke's County Seat, on occasion of the "meets" or assemblages of hunts men and hounds (frequent during the season), caused to be used a delicacy.

To the Earl of Mulgrave, now, by his father's death, Marquis of Normanby, the Duke of Cleveland gave the recipe, and he, previous to leaving Nova Scotia for England to take his father's seat in the House of Lords, gave it to Mr. Halford. The explanations relative to the origin of the Halford Leicestershire Table Sauce are given to distinguish it from the many worthless articles vended, purporting to be Relishes or Sauces once owned or patronized by English Noblemen. FOR SALE BY ALL GROCERS.

POTTERY. GLASS, AND LAMPS.

THE Subscribers invite the attention of intending buyers, or those interested in seeing novelties in this line, to our stock, which is being added to every week.
